

TRB-002 — Discovery

Submitter: Mark Brandon

Request: Cap the maximum number of submissions for the concierge level

Proposed Solution: TRB-002 — Cap concierge submissions + paid overage

What is proposed

- Introduce a per-month submission counter on every account, tied to the subscription tier (Basic / Pro / Concierge).
- Enforce a hard cap at the tier's monthly limit; concierge gets the highest base cap. Block further submissions in-flight until either the next billing cycle or a paid overage is purchased.
- Add a self-serve "Add one submission for $20" action that is visible whenever the account is at-or-near its monthly cap. The action charges the customer's saved payment method and increments their cap by 1 for the current billing period.
- Expose admin metrics (overage uptake, near-cap accounts) on the internal dashboard so customer success can spot accounts that are repeatedly hitting the wall.
- Apply the same overage path to every tier, not just concierge, so the upsell pattern is consistent across the product.

Desired outcome

- A concierge customer who reaches their submission cap sees a clear, in-product upgrade path ("you've used X of Y; add another submission for $20") instead of a silent failure or a generic error.
- Billing reflects the overage on the next invoice with a line item the customer can audit.
- Submission caps are enforced server-side so a determined customer can't bypass them by retrying the request.
- Customer success has visibility into which accounts are hitting caps so they can proactively pitch a tier upgrade.

Success criteria

- Synthetic test: a Concierge test account at its cap can purchase a $20 overage and successfully submit one more time; the next attempt is blocked again.
- The "Add submission for $20" CTA appears in production once an account is within 1 submission of its cap; click-through and conversion are tracked.
- Stripe (or current billing provider) records the $20 overage with the correct customer/account identifiers, and the next monthly invoice shows the line item.
- Internal dashboard shows: monthly overage volume, distribution by tier, and a list of accounts that have hit their cap twice in a rolling 60-day window.
- Manual smoke from staging: log in as a concierge test client, submit until capped, purchase overage, verify the next submission succeeds and the invoice line appears.
